THE NEXT HUMANITY

Faith in Uncertainty

Funny world, looks more practical More regular, more logical and mathematical than it really is

Watch the waves oceans make Countless surface ripples tell Dancing over an undulating swell Random rolling ebbs and crests What breaks next anyone's guess

Then there's people we don't think what we feel People, we don't say what we think Don't do what we say

In all the ambiguity a skeptic eye must see
We can't be certain Yet G_D's courage leads to confidence past insecurities
To have faith in uncertainty

To have faith in uncertainty
To have faith in eternity
To have faith in uncertainty

Funny hope is only wishing longer doubts to conquer
Faith is stronger through the travails
Knowing good prevails

Watch the flames the fire makes Blazing burning oh so very bright Or flickering so low into the night
It can burn or warm
Keep it lit through the storm

And then we make mistakes we know that we shouldn't Make them when we say that we wouldn't as if we couldn't

In all the crumbling entropy
Unseen catastrophes
We can't be certain
G-D, your courage leads to confidence past the absurdities
To have faith in uncertainty

To have faith in uncertainty
To have faith in eternity
To have faith in uncertainty
To have faith

To have faith
To have faith in eternity
To live the uncertainty
To love the uncertainty

To have faith To have faith To have faith
That kind of faith

Funny world looks more frightening, more violent,
more cynically clinically nihilist
